INTRODUCTION

1. Brief introduction

- Your name
- Your background (professional/private)

2. Get to know your group!

- Get into groups of 5!
- Find 10 things you have in common! Body parts such as "arms" and "legs" are not allowed. You have 10 minutes!
- Present your list to the group!

IS PROFIT THE POINT OF WORK?

- Can you serve two masters?
- “Our work is temporary and meaningless when we try to control it to get the most profit out of it”
- In contrast work set in the context of God's eternity, seen as a gift from him, is satisfying...

Ref: Ecclesiastes 3: 11-15

FEEDBACK RULES

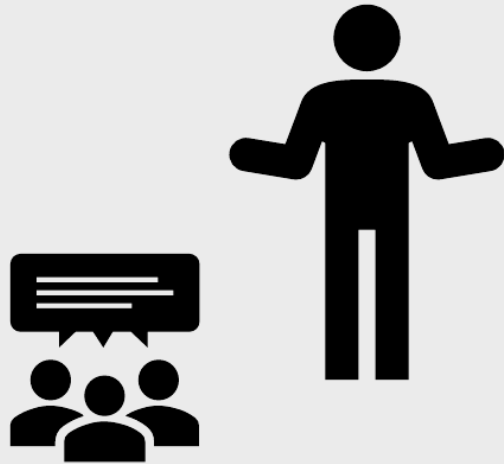

How to Provide Feedback

1. Treat each other with respect
2. Provide constructive feedback on the task, not on the person
3. Start and end with a positive point – place any negative feedback in the middle (sandwich rule)
4. But don't forget the negative points: these highlight the possibilities for improvement
5. Always see mistakes as a learning opportunity and share these with others as well

FEEDBACK RULES

How to Receive Feedback

1. See feedback as the way to learn and improve
2. Listen carefully: Always ask questions if you haven't understood something
3. Take notes: This makes it easier for you to remember the points made by your colleagues
4. Don't react defensively, accept the opinion of the person giving you their feedback and thank them for helping you
5. Decide how to act on the feedback. Think about how you can implement any necessary changes
